Round the Horne

Directed by Phil Travis

Ladies and gentlemen, for those of you easily offended, you've come to the right place. It's Thursday, 23rd June 1966, and welcome to the Paris Studios, Lower Regent Street, for this week's recording of Round the Horne. If you understand a joke, please laugh. The microphones can't pick up smiles. If you don't understand it, laugh anyway - and work it out on the way home. This week we have a tale of intrepid derring-do, a tender hospital visit and a trip to the pet shop, but unfortunately couldn't fit-in coverage of the UK Open two-man ecclesiastical bobsleigh competition down the up-escalator at Debenhams in Guildford. So settle back, ensure your glasses are charged (it's cheaper by the bottle) and we hope you enjoy the show...

Douglas Smith	Andrew Lockwood
Kenneth Horne	Larry Westland
Kenneth Williams	Ken Lindup
Betty Marsden	Wendy Lockwood
Hugh Paddick	Damien Stuart
Bill Pertwee	Tony Cannings
Special Effects	Phil Travis

There will be an interval of approximately 15 minutes between each play.

The Vicar of Dibley

Based on the TV series by Richard Curtis

Directed by Louise Enticknap and Amanda Worpole

The Reverend Geraldine Granger is the boisterous female minister serving in an eccentrically conservative Oxfordshire village. To mark the 650th anniversary of St. Barnabus's Church, the villagers set up a radio station for a week; Geraldine holds a competition for the best DJ; Frank reveals his secret and Alice competes against David in the village quiz.

David Horton	David Rochester
Owen Newitt	David Airey
Jim Trott	Ben Baker
Geraldine Granger	Mary Anne Barton
Frank Pickle	Andrew Lockwood
Hugo Horton	David Burt
Alice Tinker	Louise Enticknap

A proportion of the Raffle proceeds will go to Comic Relief in lieu of Performance Rights
